Micah Sedillos, CCLS, explains what an MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) is to the children of Seth Cuni.

Helping Families Talk About a Parent’s Cancer

Seth Cuni, a single dad, lived with tongue cancer for months without telling his two young children. “I just decided that I’m a big guy. That this is my problem, and I can do this alone. Well, I couldn’t.”

At the suggestion of his therapist, Cuni turned to Child and Adolescent Life Services, a service offered through Duke Cancer Institute’s Patient Support Program that teaches parents and children how to talk about a parent’s cancer. Using creative activities, props, and facilitated conversations, Jean Hartford-Todd, a specialist in the program, worked with him and his kids to break the ice.

Hartford-Todd often begins by asking children if it is hard, or easy, to answer the question, “What is cancer?”

She helps younger children answer by having them blow bubbles in a cup to simulate the process of cells dividing as cancer grows. Then she explains that there are medicines that try to stop the cancer bubbles from growing and even make the bubbles disappear.

Hartford-Todd also encourages parents to talk about the side effects kids are likely to see them experience, such as fatigue, nausea, or hair loss. “It’s important to help kids understand that this is a normal, expected part of the treatment,” she said.

In addition to helping children understand cancer and cancer treatments, Hartford-Todd works with them on coping. For example, the kids make tranquility tubes filled with water, glitter, beads, and colorful rubber bands.

Cuni’s son Roman, aged eight, said that the tranquility tube helped to relieve his stress over his father’s treatment. “We made those things that you shake up and the stuff falls down inside. It helps you take your mind off of worry. I’ve learned it’s okay to worry, but that you don’t always have to worry.”

Cuni said that the program has made a tough time in his life a little easier. “I can’t say cancer has been a wonderful journey, but it’s been a lot easier with my kids, and my ex-wife, on board. It was wonderful to be able to have them involved in the whole process,” said Cuni.

Hartford-Todd said that only a few hospitals provide Child and Adolescent Life Services for children of adult patients. Specialists like her and Sedillos (pictured on the cover) provide their services at Duke Cancer Institute locations across Durham and Wake counties.

Patient and Nurse Navigation
Navigators support patients, families, and caregivers through their cancer care. They make sure you have information to make decisions and advocate for your needs. They identify barriers to care and connect you with available resources, as needed. Our navigators support you all the way from diagnosis to end of treatment. If you are interested in learning more, contact your healthcare team and ask what Navigation services are available to you.

Clinical Social Work
Oncology and palliative care social workers help patients and their loved ones cope with emotional and practical concerns. They identify and address specific needs, working to alleviate stressors and financial burdens associated with a cancer diagnosis. Then they connect you and your loved ones with resources such as disability, home health/ hospice, advance directives and end-of-life care. To learn more, contact your healthcare team and ask about Clinical Social Work services.

Chaplain Services & Education
Duke chaplains are on site seven days a week to offer spiritual support to you and your loved ones. When requested, they connect you with faith-specific representatives from the community. To learn more, contact Chaplain Services & Education at Duke Cancer Institute locations. In Raleigh, call 919.812.7972; for Duke Cancer Center in Durham, 919.684.3586; or Duke Cancer Center North Durham, 919.470.5363.

Therapy and Counseling
Our medical family therapists provide individual, couples, and family therapy. They help you and your loved ones cope with the impact of cancer, all at no cost. Psychiatry and psychology services are also available and offered as part of our treatment for emotional, psychological, and relational issues associated with a cancer diagnosis. To learn more, visit DukeCancerInstitute.org/Therapy-and-Support-Groups.

Sexual Health Services
Sexual health services explain the impact cancer treatments can have on sexual health and intimacy. They help you address concerns surrounding sexual function, sexual feelings, intimacy, and changes in sexual health. To learn more, visit DukeCancerInstitute.org/SupportiveCare.
Quit at Duke
Quit at Duke is a program designed to help people quit using tobacco products. Services are provided by tobacco treatment specialists and behavioral medicine clinicians. For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call 919.613.QUIT (7848). To learn more, visit DukeHealth.org/Quit.

Survivorship Services
They partner with you and your loved ones to achieve healthy, fulfilling lives beyond cancer. Areas of care that are addressed include assessment and management of both physical and emotional needs that may result from the cancer experience, cancer screenings and monitoring, and counseling related to prevention and health promotion. We offer a number of clinical and supportive services. For more information, call 919.668.2122. To learn more, visit DukeHealth.org/Treatments/Cancer/Survivorship-Services.

Teen and Young Adult Oncology Program
They provide teen and young adult patients (ages 15 to 29) and their loved ones with support and community during a cancer diagnosis, treatment, and survivorship. The program offers specialized medical care; individual, couples and family therapy; peer connection; and activity-based groups, both in the medical center and in the community. To learn more, visit DukeCancerInstitute.org/TYAO.

Palliative Care
This team helps with symptoms such as shortness of breath, pain, nausea, constipation, fatigue, anxiety, depression, trouble sleeping, and other experiences keeping you from feeling your best. The team works closely with you, your loved ones, and your doctors to ensure that your medical care reflects what is most important to you. To schedule an appointment, call 919.668.6688, option #7. To learn more, visit DukeHealth.org/Treatments/Palliative-Care.

Self-Image Services
Our self-image consultants offer a variety of services and products to assist individuals with changes in body-image experienced during cancer treatment and survivorship. If you are interested in a self-image consultation, call 919.613.1906 or email cancersupport@duke.edu. To learn more, visit DukeCancerInstitute.org/Self-Image-Services.

Child and Adolescent Life Services
They focus on supporting the emotional and developmental needs of children and teens in families who are facing cancer. They hold individual education sessions to support parents while they take the lead in helping their children understand a cancer diagnosis, treatment, side effects, and changes in their family life. To learn more, visit DukeCancerInstitute.org/SupportiveCare/Child-Life.

Available Legal Resources
Duke Law School’s Health Care Planning Project offers free legal assistance to prepare important health care documents (Healthcare Power of Attorney; Durable Power of Attorney; Advanced Directive) for DCI patients.
